

WHAT YOU WILL DISCOVER WHEN READING THEM

- 1. Summary Report
- 2. European Report
- 3. National report

The reports review elderly demographics and challenges in partner countries and the EU. They cover social farming, its implementation, and benefits for the elderly, concluding with its potential to improve their well-being.

4. Case studies from Germany, Ireland, Portugal and Slovenia

Case Studies explore ageing in these countries and introduce social farming. They highlight elderly people as a key target group and examine the current state of social farming for the elderly.

REPORTS

The first phase of FarmElder was to analyse the current situation of the needs of older people in each country and at European level, as also highlighted by the Green Paper on Ageing.

FarmElder's contribution was to identify the specific needs of the countries involved in the project. In particular by defining the needs of social farming and how it can be realised.

Reporting on the challenges for older people and the potential benefits of social farming. The conclusions are reported in a summary document.

CASE STUDIES

The project examines the potential of social farming activities for the elderly. You can read a document bringing together a collection of case studies from the project partners in Slovenia, Germany, Portugal and Ireland.

The case studies also show the diversity of providers, formal frameworks and formats in which social farming for older people is offered.
